About the Conference

Language plays a significant role in social development. Literature reflects the social life and acts as a tool for further awareness and growth. The status of English language and the luring position of English literature in the present era is a well known fact. In such a context, it is very interesting to note how English language and literature takes a lead role in the social welfare of any society that is very much in contact with this foreign language. There are many instances to show the magical effect of this language in making people broad minded; in encouraging people to get educated, making them self-reliant, developing a community with self-awareness and independent minds, and also making the people confident, hardworking, goal oriented, with enhanced self-respect. It would be great when scholars from different disciplines and places gather together to research upon the significant role of English language & literature in making connections for social welfare in this modern era.
